

SUTS WILL FOLLOW ENTRY OF MACHINES

Wright Brothers Are Determined to Protect Their Patents.

FOREIGN INFRINGEMENT

Many Aeronauts Will Take Part in German International Contests.

NEW YORK, September 24.—Any attempt to make flights in this country with a Bleriot or Farman aeroplane, or any other regulation-made flying machine which they consider an infringement on their patents, will meet with the opposition of the Wright brothers. Aeronauts who wish to enter contests of the proposed international Bleriot monoplane by H. H. H. Sands of New York, and the purchase of a Farman monoplane by J. W. Curran, of Jackson, Miss.

"If these machines are brought to this country for the purpose of making flights, we will file suits against the owners," said Mr. Wright. "Both the Bleriot and the Farman are machines which are infringements of our patents."

Mr. Wright explained that the basis for his claim that these two foreign machines infringed on the rights of himself and his brother was not merely their patent on the Bleriot monoplane, but that they based their contention on the patent governing the combination of any surfaces with the plane by which the machine was made to circle about or to maintain its equilibrium.

According to Mr. Wright, who has been the leading foreign machine in the Bleriot monoplane is a direct infringement of the Wright patent.

While Mr. Wright is completely assembled his aeroplane with the exception of the horizontal rudder, it is not probable that he will make a flight to-morrow. His motor is ready for testing and the monoplane is ready to be placed in position.

Mr. Wright has decided to attach a canoe to the under part of his aeroplane. He will cover it with canvas so that it will not fill with water in case he is compelled by any chance to alight in the bay.

The canoe will be placed well in front, as Mr. Wright believes, the tendency of the machine on striking the water would be to plunge forward on account of the weight of the plane. "But I am not going to come down on the water," said Mr. Wright. "It has already been my policy to take no unnecessary chances, however." And then he examined a little pipe attached to the motor to make sure that there was not the slightest leakage.

Glenn H. Curtiss, of Hammondsport, N. Y., assembling his machine for next week's flights in this city.

International Contests. BERLIN, September 24.—The international contests which begin next Sunday at Johannisthal, near Berlin, outside of Berlin, promise to be successful. The competitions are being held under the auspices of the German Aeronautic Association, the Imperial Aero Club and the Imperial Automobile Club. The aerodromes is a vast field, surrounded by a fence of forest-trees. The flying course is 500 feet wide, 135 miles long and outlined by tall masts.

The contest will continue for one week. The principal events are to be distance and endurance races, a competition to reach the greatest altitude, and speed and weight-carrying races. The prize money is $10,000. The donor of the Michelin cup has consented that this year's contest for this trophy be held here. The cup is worth $2,000, and with a purse of $10,000 to the aeroplanist covering the greatest distance.

Among the aeroplanists who are to take part are Bleriot, Latham, Farman, Rougier, Edwards, Fournier, Decauville and Bess. Orville Wright has not yet announced his decision to participate.

LEON LING INDICTED

Jury Formally Charges Him With Death of His Sister.

NEW YORK, September 24.—Eldest child of the young missionary to the Chinese of this city, was strangled to death by Leon Ling, a Chinese, who was indicted by the coroner's jury rendered to-day. With the police of the world hunting for Ling, a Chinese, who was murdered on June 16, the coroner's announcement of the cause of her death has been delayed by the chemist's examination of the body. The report that the stomach contained a quantity of ergot did not alter the jury's verdict.

The coroner has discharged Chong Sing, the witness who swore that on the morning of June 16 he saw Miss Ling's body with a cord tight about the neck on Ling's bed and later saw Ling put it in a trunk.

KILLS HIS KINSMAN

Georgia Planter Ends Quarrel With Shot From Pistol.

WRIGHTSVILLE, Ga., September 24.—E. Fields, one of the Georgia planters of Emanuel county, died tonight at his home at Adrian, Ga., while his brother-in-law, M. J. Webb, is a prisoner in the jail here, the result of a fight between the two men in an open field near Adrian last night. The two men, who own a farm and disputed over the division of the crops, at first they fought with fists, but Webb ended the trouble by drawing his pistol and shooting his kinsman through the head. Fields, who was unconscious to the ground while Webb, it is said, declared his intention not to submit to arrest. He was not taken into custody until to-day. Fields' brother is sheriff of Emanuel county.

Death of C. H. Paine

BOSTON, Mass., September 24.—The death of C. H. Paine, a well-known member of the Boston brokerage firm of

THEODORE SHONTS IS NAMED IN SUIT

Charged With Having Alienated Mrs. Hipsh's Affections from Her Husband.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, September 24.—Frederick Hipsh, New York representative of a Kentucky distillery, and a man in good circumstances, though not wealthy, wants $200,000 for his wife's affections, and wants that amount from no less a personage than Theodore P. Shonks, the president of the $250,000,000 Ryan-Belmont International Metropolitan Company, president of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad, and an official in many corporations of prominence.

Mr. Hipsh, through his attorney, John E. Harrington, alleges that Mr. Shonks alienated the affections of his wife and trifled with her affections for a period of over two years, until a separation followed a violent scene at Narragansett Pier about a year ago. Mr. Hipsh doesn't care so much for the $200,000 damages as he does to have a legal expose of the condition of wealthy men, wrecking happy lives and destroying the homes of the lesser lights of the world. On the other hand, through his attorney, Delaney Nichols, Shonks claims that he is a victim of mistaken identity, and denies all the allegations set forth by Mr. Hipsh.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

THEODORE SHONTS IS NAMED IN SUIT

Charged With Having Alienated Mrs. Hipsh's Affections from Her Husband.

Charged With Having Alienated Mrs. Hipsh's Affections from Her Husband.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NEW YORK, September 24.—Frederick Hipsh, New York representative of a Kentucky distillery, and a man in good circumstances, though not wealthy, wants $200,000 for his wife's affections, and wants that amount from no less a personage than Theodore P. Shonks, the president of the $250,000,000 Ryan-Belmont International Metropolitan Company, president of the Toledo, St. Louis and Western Railroad, and an official in many corporations of prominence.

Mr. Hipsh, through his attorney, John E. Harrington, alleges that Mr. Shonks alienated the affections of his wife and trifled with her affections for a period of over two years, until a separation followed a violent scene at Narragansett Pier about a year ago. Mr. Hipsh doesn't care so much for the $200,000 damages as he does to have a legal expose of the condition of wealthy men, wrecking happy lives and destroying the homes of the lesser lights of the world. On the other hand, through his attorney, Delaney Nichols, Shonks claims that he is a victim of mistaken identity, and denies all the allegations set forth by Mr. Hipsh.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

This was taken, and upon their return a note was awaiting his wife. He opened the note, and found that it contained very damaging evidence against the intriguers. This led to a violent scene, further discoveries and the present suit, which is a result of his discovery and he promises to produce in court some interesting data.

Mr. Hipsh declares there is no mistake about it, and will prove his claims when the case comes to trial.

Mr. Hipsh did not learn of the alleged intrigue until it had progressed for two years, and then only by chance. His wife was spending the summer at Narragansett Pier, and he usually ran down over Sunday. One Monday, not feeling well, he did not hasten back to New York, but remained at the hotel.

PREPARING PROOFS OF ARCTIC DASHES

(Continued from Page One—Column 5.)